Mr Irono

As mentioned previously we are working diligently to get this matter resolved and the best time for GSA to meet with you is the second week of October

Thanks

Mr Jackson,

Thank you for your response. Unfortunately, our situation, which we have patiently endured for so long, has now taken on an accelerating timeline, and I must request the possibility for a meeting within the month. Due to the severe impact this project has had on our cash flow and our lines of credit, there is an increasingly urgent need for the liquidity to pay off debts. Although we have been working diligently with our bonding company to fulfill outstanding payments incurred for subcontractor obligations, our bank is moving towards a foreclosure process to close out the line of credit we used to complete this project. Therefore, it is critical that we deliver rapidly on the equitable adjustment package to build sufficient resiliency in our business to ensure the fair outcome for which we have been advocating for years.

As such, I would like to reiterate our pressing need for swift procedural progression and please request a meeting at the very least within September. If you have any questions or require additional documentation, please let me know.

Best Regards,
